My Debt of Gratitude.
"Ulcers the Size of Man's Hand."

Our Portrait is of Mr. G. M. THOMPSON, of 4, Midland Grove, Edinburgh Road, Balaclava, Birmmham, England, who writes:

"In July last I happened to get a scratch on my leg. It was so slight I took no notice of it till a fortnight elapsed, when I found it could not be cured. It gradually grew worse, when it turned septic; from this period I got from bed to bed till at length the sore turned into ulcers.
I had at that particular time clon-des of a man's hand covering my leg. After I had tried nearly everything I read about your Clarke's Blood Mixture and decided to take it. It was then in the month of October, and after the second bottle, I found relief. I continued until the seventh bottle when I found myself completely rid of the trouble. You can make use of this statement and I will be only too pleased to answer any enquiries because it is nothing else but Clarke's Blood Mixture that I owe my debt of gratitude to."

Sufferers from Bad Legs, Abscesses, Ulcers, Glandular Swell-ings, Piles, Eczema, Boils, Pimples, Eruptions, Cuts, and Rheumatism should realize that before doctors, etc., can give temporary relief—the cure of complete and lasting benefit the blood must be thoroughly cleansed of the impure waste matter that has caused the trouble. Clarke's Blood Mixture quickly attacks, overcomes, and expels the impurities that are so many remarkable recoveries stand to credit.
Reason to take, and free from any injurious ingredients. Of all Chemists and Stores.

Ask for and see that you get

Clarke's Blood Mixture
"Everybody's Blood Purifier."

CHURCH NOTES.

THE THIRD SUNDAY AFTER THE EPIPHANY.

Both the Collect and Epistle teach us that our fight against sin in this world is to be a very real and often dangerous one. Goodness like everything else worth having, has to be fought for, and the greater the value the greater the price we must be ready to pay. For St. Paul this world is always the scene of battle, and from time to time in his writings we catch a glimpse of the fierceness of his own fight. "Oh, wretched man that I am; who shall deliver me from the body of this death?" We must not expect to ever lay down our weapons; for some there may be times of rest and refreshment by the way side but only that they may gain fresh strength for further struggle, for most it will be a continuous pressing onwards as it was for St. Paul to the goal which is Christ Jesus. We are compassed about by a great cloud of witnesses, the saints of the Church triumphant rejoicing at our conquests, carrying over the reveries of war, but we must not forget these other witnesses, the hosts of Satan trying to drag us down "the rulers of spiritual wickedness in high places." So in the Collect we pray to God "In all our dangers stretch forth Thy right hand" and the Epistle gives further details of the necessary equipment if we are to be strong enough to overcome evil. Added to the list given in last week's Epistle must be Humility, Honesty and Sincerity, Peacefulness and hardihood of all not only lack of desire for retaliation on our enemies but a desire to serve and help them.

The foulness of the leper and the white robes of Jesus.
We see the crucifix standing quietly in the midst of a multitude, for as he comes near to worship the new Master, his fellow creatures shrink aside. Perhaps in the hearts of a few there is pity for the poor outcast man but they dare not touch him and no one can really understand his loneliness and utter need as with his eyes alight with a new hope he falls at the feet of Jesus. And it must always be so in this world, sorrow and sin and sickness isolate us from our fellow men, and in the midst of a multitude we stand alone.

He has been told that his illness is beyond human aid, no doctor can relieve him, leprosy is incurable they say, but he has heard the words of Jesus, as He gives the wonderful Sermon on the Mount.
He has said "Ask and it shall be given you" and faith in the Divinity of this new Teacher wells up in the heart of the leper. Wonderingly he has watched Him come down from the mountain unlike many of the teachers in the Synagogue, he begins at once to practice what He has taught, He comes down and mixes with the common people. Here at last is Someone who does not shrink away, to whom he may draw near with safety. Someone he may love and worship.
We notice that that is what he wants to do first of all, to worship and then with absolute belief in Christ's cleansing power and an acknowledgment of his own unworthiness he cries out "If Thou wilt, Thou canst make me clean." And Jesus touches him! What that touch meant to him who for years had felt no other touch except from diseased ones like himself, we cannot guess, the touch of Christ's own hand, we only read that it brought complete restoration, for "straightway his leprosy was cleansed."

So this leper teaches us that humble and faithful prayer that will make all our prayers right in God's eyes "If Thou wilt Thou canst do this."

"A man three cubits high and yet tall enough to reach Heaven." These are the words in which St.
Chrysostom describes St. Paul of whom the Church teaches us to think especially next Thursday 26th. of January. It is by his martyrdom that most Saints are commemorated but St. Paul is chiefly remembered by his wonderful conversion when on the road to Damascus, he was struck blind by the light of heaven and heard God speak to him. The chief circumstances of his life are told in the Acts of the Apostles and his great personality shines through his Epistles. After his conversion he himself is baptized and then spends his life teaching, confirming his converts, ordaining ministers for the Gospel and performing Churches. He died at the age of sixty-eight by execution, for being a Roman he was saved the shame of crucifixion this being accounted a death too infamous for any but the worst slaves and malefactors.

Preaching Jesus to the last moment of his mortal life, he converted the three guards who conducted him to his execution; and they likewise suffered martyrdom, only three days later for the Christian Faith. St.
Paul's Cathedral in London is dedicated to this great Saint.

Many Churches all over the world are dedicated to St. Paul, often to St.
Peter and St. Paul together because they both had a special call for the conversion of the Gentiles. There is a Church in Venice dedicated to St. S.
Giovanni and Paolo which owed its foundation to a miraculous vision which appeared to the Doge. Ruskin thus tells the story in "Stones of Venice":—"In the year 1228 the Doge Giacomo Tiepolo dreamed a dream; and in his dream he saw the little oratory of the Dominicans, and, behold! all the ground around it (now occupied by the church) was covered with roses of the colour of vermillion, and the air was filled with their fragrance. And, in the midst of the roses, there were seen flying to and fro a crowd of white doves, with golden crosses upon their heads. And while the doge looked, and wondered, behold, angels descended from heaven with golden censers, and passing through the oratory, and forth among the flowers, they filled the place with the smoke of their incense. Then the doge heard suddenly a clear and loud voice which proclaimed, "This is the place that I have chosen for My preachers" and, having heard it, straightway he awoke, and went to the Senate, and declared to them the vision. Then the Senate decided that fifty acres of ground should be given to enlarge the monastery; and the Doge Tiepolo himself made a still larger grant afterwards."

Cure That Cough.
When you have a troublesome cough, it does not mean that you have consumption or that you are going to have it, but it does mean that your lungs are threatened, and it is just as well to become the safe side and take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy before it is too late.

Gives a Glorious Sensation of Vigour and Well-being

The more highly-strung your nerves are, the more quickly they will respond to the invigorating effect of Sanatogen. But even the dulcist nerves respond to it in time—feel the powerful access of energy that Sanatogen brings, and derive from it a new tone and elasticity.

Mr. Harold Hazeltine, the well-known movie actor, says: "Since I took my first cup of Sanatogen there has been a day-by-day gain in activity and energy. In less than a month it has wonderfully improved my condition. My appetite is healthy, I sleep like an infant, and awake each morning to the fresh joy of living."

"TRUTH, JUSTICE, PUBLIC SERVICE"

HONGKONG, SATURDAY, JAN. 20, 1923.

The Sirens never called a Ulysses more insistently call than the lapping, loughing waves were calling me low.
The Gracefully I saw the bows of the vessel rise and plunge into the long, green roller, scattering its foaming crest into a shower of spray. Then down, down—down I felt her surge and I held my breath in fearful ecstasy until the next great wave sent her quivering upwards. Greedily I drank in the keen, fresh air while the salt spray stung my face and the wind made rough caresses among my hair. What joy, what delight! Hongkong, the crowded, toilsome city far away astern and the great, open sea calling me—calling me insistently, clamantly, irresistibly. What bounding joy, what supreme delight! And then that dumpe telephone bell rang.

This song, doubtless, has some lost much of its savour, sweet much of its charm for some people here—those who have long since succumbed to the happy, masquerade at the East and what Conrad calls the comfortable feeling of being white.
Still, "Home Sweet Home" can yet for many people make the heart glow and the memory kindle. Here in Hongkong, however, the song is perhaps now not so much sung as thought. Tuna's (of all places) has a concrete reminder of the song—a stained glass church window to the memory of Payne, the author who was sometime "captain" there. This window bears the text "The Lord hath brought me home." A clergyman who visited Tuna in the course of his gravel thought the text an excellent one for his first sermon when he rejoined his home flock again. Accordingly he prepared the sermon, but he omitted to verify the text until the morning he was to preach.

Then he found the real text to read—"The Lord hath brought me home again empty."

An Italian, whose fruit-barrow stood in a crowded street, grew annoyed at the way people continually handled his wares, pinching and mauling them.
After a while he put a notice up on a large card: "If you must pincha da fruit, pincha da coco-nut."

THE Home decision to destroy the war tribunal records naturally suggests the question what has happened to our own Hongkong records. They will presumably lie in the official archives until some remote age when a bright young cadet looking for his harbour scheme papers will stumble upon them and while away an hour—the tiffin hour, of course—glancing over their pages. That his prematurely solemn face (they become serious early in the Government service) break but once into a smile, however superior, then have they records been preserved not in vain.

London's cenotaph, that "monument of simple dignity and austere beauty," has its inscription, and Hongkong's memorial will doubtless in due course also have its graven legend. Unless it has already been decided to copy the Home inscription it would be a gracious thing to invite suggested lines. This thought has been inspired by Chesterton's "For a War Memorial," the last verse of which reads:—

"Still to the last of crumbling time Upon this stone be read How many men of England died To prove they were not dead."

The Great Western Railway Company in England has issued a little book of "economy hints" to its employees. I pass a few of the hints along to Mr. Winslow for the consideration

Blotting Paper.—A small sheet, once folded, is most convenient for use. Larger sheets or several folds lead to waste.

Electric Light Bulbs.—While dusting or cleaning have the lights switched on. The fragile wire in the bulb is more plastic when glowing and much less liable to break.

Rigor cloth should not be allowed to remain wet. Wring them after use and hang them up to dry.

Mops should be well shaken after use and placed head uppermost to dry.

Pens.—If pen points are wiped before being laid down they will last much longer.

Pins.—Keep in containers. If allowed to lie about on a desk they are likely to be swept away by a duster.

Soap.—Bars of soap should be cut into pieces of serviceable size and allowed to dry before use. This makes the soap last longer.

"Have you read the latest book by—?" And then they will hesitate, beginning again: "Have you read the latest book by William Le—le—le. . . Oh! you know whom I mean. The man who writes sensational novels. No, not Oopenheim. I've forgotten his name." The problem is neatly stated by one candid reader who wrote to the author in the following strain:—

It troubles each sex,
So I put it to you;
Is it William Le Quex,
Or William Le Quex?
We give you the cue,
So no longer perplex,
It is William Le Quex,
Not William Le Quex.

The happy father of triplets was explaining to a friend that he could only account for it by the fact that his wife had been to the film version of "The Three Musketeers" at the Coronet recently.
"Good Heaven!" replied the friend with a horrified look "my wife came back from Home the other day and she was telling me that just before she left London she went to see "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse!"

How will the future historian write down the twentieth century? Will he find the tale of its outweighing the tale of its weal; will he declare the sum of its failures overshadowing the sum of its successes? It is interesting to speculate upon posterity's verdict, the more especially as we ourselves now occupy the judgment seat and review the centuries that have already passed.

Among these a modern historian finds the 6th century B.C., one of the most remarkable in history, for that period, he explains, saw mankind's adolescence begin. During the 6th Century B.C. lived, unknown to each other, such men as Gautama Buddha, the teacher who held that until man has conquered his personal cravings his life is trouble and his end sorrow; Isaiah, the Jewish prophet; also Heraclitus, Confucius and Lao Tse. Three of these names are now universally known, standing for the way of peace and the way of contentment.

I'll guess there was some LACONIA guessing done here LACONICS during the week. Americans claim that they have adopted this word direct from Chaucer who used "geese" very frequently in the present slang sense.
The word may be good old English but it is not—I guess—good modern English.

Some kind fairy waited this into the office during the week. Whence it came, by whom 'twas writ, both I know not, but I gaily print it because I think you'll like it.

"It is a night of sublime withery. Stars everywhere, I leap (or want to,) dance, jig. My heart is full. I would embrace all the world; even lead it money. Anon my mood changes and memory overwhelms me. I remember things.
That first kiss. She who gave it.
The others. . . The glorious moons that made intoxicating the nights of my youth. The friends who were and are not. The whispered nothings that made the bliss leap. I feel again the slender fingers that caressed me. Glorious hours of youth. Gone.
As they flash before me I weep bitterly, helplessly, noisily.
"Drunk again."

The great pharaoh lay dying. "Sire," said his chief high priest,
"your fams shall outlast time." There thousand years slipped away. Then one day the great pharaoh's tomb was found. And such was his fame (or such was the fame of his treasures) that the discovery vied with a sensational murder trial for chief place among the news. And thereafter when anyone thought about the murder trial they thought also about the great pharaoh. Thus was the high priest's prophecy (unexpectably) fulfilled.

While the great conflict lasted, the war was blamed for a most everything that was not as it should have been—soaring living costs, stormy weather, rough collar edges, garrulous neighbours, dirty trains, naughty night clubs, watery soup; these and a thousand other evils equally bad. Now that Europe has naively adopted the word peace to cover its troubles, the long-suffering war is getting its own back and has entered into this blaming business with gusto. The controversy "Who began it?" provided the opening and the number of the accused grows ever greater. Obloquy has fallen in turn on the Germans, the Russians, the Austrians, the Serbians, the Bulgars, the Turks, the Greeks.
Blame has centred in armaments, economic conditions, political intrigues, Socialist plots, capitalist schemes, French revanche. None of these, however, is the real culprit. I know and I'll let you into the secret.
The war was started by an army, not the Russian Army, not the German army, but the army of men who are now making lostness, big and small, writing about every aspect of the great tussle. When they have no more revelations to make, no more memoirs to write—when they have exhausted the war as a subject, why, they'll just engineer another little scrap and begin over again.

Funeral—surely! These woebegone looks, these drooping banners, these mourning trains, obvious tokens of sorrow were they. "Funeral?" The knowing one with me sniffed "What you see," he said, "is a procession—the Burglars' Guild procession." "But—" I stammered, "I don't quite understand." He replied shortly, "Pare-well procession. . . . guild closed down. . . . business dead. . . . salutary sentences. . . . severe deterrents. . . . Then I and re-stood.

Does poverty aid Art?
EXAMPLE This question I was prompted to ask because I noted that an American TRECEET. literary paper—The Dial —awards annually the quite respectable sum of $2,000 (gold) to a young American writer whose services to literature it considers worthy of recognition. Unlike most prizes, this award carries no conditions. The recipient can use the money any way he chooses. The object, however, is to enable him to carry on his work without financial worry for twelve months at least. This example is worth noting—and emulating. How often have authors lacked the assistance which would not merely have eased their burden—and who knows?—possibly have enabled them to produce finer work, but would indeed have saved them from sharing Chatterton's fate. Surely if the late Mr. Carnegie could endow politicians —he gave Lloyd George £2,000 a year to free him from financial worries—surely wealthy men can be found who will follow The Dial's fine example and by endowing genius enrich the world of ideas. Surely.

Some men you might think were descended from the shark, the boa, or the heaver, but they—the great,
mysterious "they"
who never are—they trace man's descent from the ape. That's the origin I grandparent they have found for us—even for me and for me. And now by way of driving home their conclusion they publish an article, "Anthropology," in one of the three "Encyclopedia Britannica" supplementary volumes which have recently been issued. In this they declare that "in spite of not infrequent attempts to disprove man's kinship with the apes, recent research in anatomy, ontogeny, and comparative pathology as well as the conclusive test of blood-relationship has definitely established the fact of man's close kinship with the anthropoid apes, and especially with the gorilla (1). But this fundamental conclusion is not in any sense invalidated by the clear recognition of the further fact that the ancestors of man and the gorilla respectively became differentiated one from the other, at least, as early as the Miocene period (millions of years ago)." According to another profound authority, time was about two hundred thousand years ago when man of the type existing to-day lived side by side with another species of man, every bit as human, every bit as advanced in development but structurally as different from modern man as the gorilla from the chimpanzee. This species, now extinct, was regarded until recently as the less specialized ancestral type from which modern man had been evolved. The evolutionist now realises that both forms are finished products, the terminal twigs of a yet older branch of the same stem which gave rise to the monkey and ape. More over, this authority declares, careful excavation of human remains has proved in the light of modern knowledge of geology and biology, that modern man has undergone very little change during the last two hundred thousand years. Indeed, more than this: "An individual whose bones have been unearthed from pleistocene deposits might, were he alive to day, be taken to shops in Mile End Road and fitted out with ready-made clothes, boots, gloves, and a hat, all from stock sizes. In these he could probably walk up Leadenhall Street to the Bank, and on down Fleet Street and the Strand to Charing Cross without attracting more attention from the crowd, which now takes aliens for granted, than would a modern negro or Chinaman." Presumably our descendants will be writing like this about us two hundred thousand years later—or will constant riding have weakened man's legs until they have finally disappeared; unremitting use of hats have caused him to become permanently bald; and age-long diet of tabloids have made him entirely toothless?

When the fussy little engine has made its last journey; when the long string of trucks has emptied of its final load; when the expensive breakwater has been completed; when imposing thoroughfares have been laid; when huge godowns are rising everywhere; when modern dwellings are taking shape; when the whole vast Praya East reclamation scheme has been completed and Hongkong is sixty acres richer, then will they erect a statue and place it in the position of honour. They will erect this statue to the humble, toiling coolie whose labour made this Aladdin like feat possible. Yes, they will do this thing—I don't think.

China once had, very long ago, an emperor who ordered the destruction of all books save those on agriculture, medicine and divination. His motive was wholly bad—he wanted literature to begin with his own reign—but his decrees, barbaric though this may sound, was not wholly bad. Had he been a true scholar, not a conceited ass, he would have preserved every good book and burned only the rubbish. Instead of being infamous in history he would then have been famous. Obviously,
The real tragedy of the Alexandria Library was not that its books were burned, but that they were burned without discrimination. The modern sage who first said that never spoke with greater truth. The world is becoming clogged with books that should never have been written. The world should therefore make a regular practice of burning its Alexandria Libraries—burning them with discrimination, of course. The never-ending flow of print—books, tracts, brochures, manuals, magazines, pamphlets, journals, periodicals, newspapers, and circulars—the never-ending flow of print is terrible to contemplate, especially when one reflects that most of this vast supply is treasured with miser care. And no—horror!—even while I do—this surging flood, I am myself increasing its volume—the very words I write to confess my offence drip further drops into the inky sea. I'll stop. I'll stop right away. There!

The "Empress of Canada" went overhaul this morning.

Mr. Hajee Mohamed Hassan Nemazee has been appointed a life member of the Court of the University.

Mr. George Andrew Barn, of Taikoo Sugar Refinery, has been granted letters patent for "an invention for improvements in means for swinging derricks in cargo ships."

Yesterday an armed robbery took place at No. 210 Winkler Street, occupied by a Chinese American Merchant. Five robbers dressed in long coats obtained admission and after binding and gagging the inmates made off with $3,000. The Police are investigating the affair.

A Chinese arrested this morning on the Wo Fat gang playing between Hongkong and Tsingping, for illegal possession of a pistol told the Magistrate that he forgot to leave the weapon behind when he came from Taiping. The Police believed his story and a heavy penalty was not asked for.
Defendant was fined $150.

CANTON NEWS.

NO NEW DEVELOPMENTS.

NGAI HONG-PING IN CHARGE.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

CANTON, Jan. 19.

No political or military developments of importance have taken place since yesterday. Members of the Kuomintang state the Dr. Sun has appointed Chow Lo commander-in-chief of the "anti rebel army" and Wu Han-min Civil Governor. Ngai Hong-ping has assumed control of the Peace Maintenance Bureau, comprising military, naval and police detachments. It has been reported that Dr. Sun has definitely decided to come to Canton in the near future but others state that his plans will be governed by Hsu Shung-chi's movements. Another name of importance again in the foreground is Shum Chun huen, ex Viceroy of the Two Kwangs and one of the Seven Administrative Directors in Dr. Sun's Military Government a few years ago. He is a native of Kwangsi and it is claimed that Shum Hung-yung commander of the Kwangsi forces now in Kwang-tung is his supporter. Shum Chun-huen fell out with Dr. Sun when the Kwangsi militarists were driven from Canton in 1920 but they are reported to have joined heads again.

EXPEDITION AGAINST WAICHOW.

Although it has not been ascertained where Chen Ching-ming is, the troops that left with him are now in Waichow. The pro-Sun leaders seem determined to drive the remnant of Chen's army out and are organising an expedition against Waichow.

SUPERFLUOUS TROOPS.

The only disquieting feature in Canton at present is the number of troops billeted in all parts of the city, although they are quite orderly.
Ngai Hong-ping, when asked to be Civil Governor, replied by asking what was to be done to get rid of the superfluous troops and where were the funds forthcoming from to support them.

Fantan saloons are springing up in all parts of the city. These are by no means clandestine, as large signboards have been put up. The authorities have not re-stated the gambling monopoly but various commanders with their troops quartered in the streets "give protection" to the saloons in return for payment for their upkeep. Nothing has been done to stop the evil.

DE COLBERT RELEASED.

Dr. de Colbert has been released without further trial. It was stated that as he was charged with an offence against Chen Ching-ming he is not liable in any way now as Chen has died.

CORRESPONDENCE.

LAND INVESTMENT COMPANY PROFITS.

(To the Editor of the "China Mail.")

Sir,—Allow me a little space in your valuable paper in order to bring to the notice of investors what I consider an injustice done by the Directors of the Hongkong Land Investment and Agency Company, Limited.

I notice that the Directors of the said company have decided and saw fit to reduce the return to the shareholders in the way of bonus although the company is reported to have done exceedingly well. Last year the bonus to the shareholders was $9 and this year it is only $3.
It may be said that the dividend for the year is increased from $5 to $6, and therefore the return is exactly the same as the previous year. However I must point out that a company pays a bonus to shareholders as its profit for the year justifies. In other words when a company makes more profit than the year before it will distribute a bigger bonus to the shareholders.
But in the case of the Hongkong Land Investment and Agency Company, Ltd., the Directors have done just the opposite thing.

Enclosed please find my card.
Yours, etc.
A SHAUGHOLSEN.
Hongkong, January 19, 1923.

TAIKOO BALL

ANOTHER BIG SUCCESS.

Strings of motor-cars made their way to Taikoo last night taking happy revellers to the annual ball of the Taikoo Recreation Club which was held in the spacious club building.
The attendance was almost a record, and over 400 people spent a very delightful evening.

The decorations were not on such a lavish scale as on previous years, but there was about them a delightful simplicity. As one approached the entrance to the Club the first thing which caught the eye was an archway of vari-coloured electric fairy-lights hidden amongst foliage. The stairs leading to the dance hall were decorated with brightly coloured bunting and pot plants lined the sides. In the dance hall, evergreen festoons ran right round the room.
They were hung at irregular intervals with pretty little illuminated Japanese lanterns which formed the principal feature of the decorations. An illuminated portrait of The King occupied a central position at one end of the room, draped with the Union Jack and White Ensign. On the opposite wall hung a similarly adorned portrait of Mr. John Swire, the head of the firm. The supper and card rooms were in the lower portion of the building and were also very prettily decorated. The Cafe Wiseman's Band supplied the delightful dance music.

Amongst the guests were:—Mr.
Mrs. and Miss H. W. Robertson, Mr. and Mrs. G. T. Edkins, Mr. and Mrs.
J. Reid, Mr. and Mrs. K. E. Greig,

BLACKMAIL

AT CORONET THEATRE.

Something of the seamy side of life which the rest of the world finds so fascinating is pictured in "Blackmail," Sunday's special treat at the Coronet.
In it charming Viola Dana figures as the charming daughter of a notorious crook. Acting upon her father's death-bed instructions she enures a young man whose chief bid for fame is likely to be the size of his bank-roll before he begins spending it.
However the young man's lawyer spikes her guns, only to fall desperately in love with her and an intriguing contretemps follows.

For next week's programme at the Coronet two special attractions have been chosen. "Flower of the North" a stirring tale of love and romance based on a novel by James Oliver Curwood, is one of them and the

HAPPY VALLEY ACCIDENT.

MISS RODGER'S INJURY NOT SO SERIOUS.

Miss Jessie Rodger was the victim of a distressing accident on the golf links at Happy Valley yesterday morning. She was coming up the course and had just left the fourth tee, when she was struck in the right eye by a ball driven from the seventh tee by a gentleman player. Miss Rodger was hit with considerable force and was badly injured. She was taken by friends in a motor car to Dr. Harston's office where the injury was examined and it was ascertained that the cheek bone had been fractured and the right eye injured. Miss Rodger afterwards entered the French Hospital.

On enquiry at the hospital this morning, it was learned that Miss Rodger was much better, and that her injury was not so serious as was at first feared. There was no danger of the sight of the right eye being affected. The injury however, requires very careful attention and Miss Rodger will be detained for some days at the hospital.

ARMED ROBBERS.

RICHTAS STOPPED AND FARES ROBBED.

At about 7 p.m. yesterday, a sub-contractor living at Wanchai was proceeding with a taxi from Kowloon City to Yau-mat on the old road. Nearing the junction of Yau-mat and Maitankok Roads he was set upon by three men who sprang on him from the roadside. They stole from him a felt hat worth 60 cents and $8. The taxi lost $3.60. Another highway robbery on the mainland occurred on the 11th, but was not reported until yesterday. Mrs. Toppin, living at No. 7, Peace Avenue, Homutun was with an amah and a "boy" in a rickshaw near the junction of the Yau-mat and Kowloon City Roads. She was suddenly stopped by three armed men who took from her a gold ring. The amah was taken up the adjoining hillside by one of the robbers and divested of her jacket, a pair of gold rings and $3.60. At this stage three men came from the other direction and the robbers took to their heels in the direction of No. 3 Railway Bridge.

FRAWLEY COMPANY.

OPENING PERFORMANCE THIS AFTERNOON.

The T. Daniel Frawley company arrived in Hongkong to day from Manila on the s.s. "Empress of Russia" and will open this afternoon at the Theatre Royal in "The First Year," a comedy of first year married life.

Tonight the entire company, including Adele Blood and Mr. Frawley, will appear in "The Cat and the Canary," regarded as one of the best mystery plays of the last ten years.

Arriving to day on the "Empress" were Miss Blood, Mr. Frawley, Henry E. Dougherty, Bernard Nodell, Betty Barnicoat, Dorrie Kemper, Aldon MacClaskey, Helen Baras, Florence Roberts, Herbert Light, Gordon Davis, Lester Sybe, Mary Adams, Ernest Bowman and M. Revilla.

"We are delighted to be in Hong Kong," said Miss Blood. "I am sure our engagement here will be a pleasant one. Certainly we are going to give Hongkong theatre patrons the best we have."

Mr. Frawley also expressed himself as being glad to get back to the city that has patronized his performances for many years past.

On Monday night the company will present "The Gold Diggers," instead of "Smilin' Through," as originally announced, in order that "Enter Madama" may be given on Tuesday night. Both plays are ripping comedies.

The background is a plain, light-colored surface.

The outstanding features of these safes is their block form, they represent as it were one solid block of steel, with all corners rounded off and offering, due to their seamless skin and entirely smooth exterior, not a single weak point from which to attack.

Rumour is busy with the reported engagement of Charlie Chaplin and Pola Negri, famous European screen star, who is making pictures in America. Neither will affirm or deny the story.

When A. B. See, millionaire President of the A. B. See Elevator Company, replied to a request for funds to help erect new buildings at Adelphi College, Brooklyn, he brought a hornet's nest down on himself. Mr. See, who left school at thirteen, declared women's colleges ought to be burned, so women could learn some common sense. "He's the kind of a man who would make his daughter wear women shoes!" was the sarcastic comment of Phyllis Cohen, an Adelphi student.

Somesh Chandra Bose, of Bengal, India, is regarded as one of the world's greatest mental calculators. When only eight he could multiply 14 digits by 14 digits mentally. Now, at twenty-eight, he multiplies 60 digits by as many more, keeping 3,900 figures in his mind, each in their respective order. He mentally calculates extractions, square roots and cube roots and is able to name the day of the week on any date 500 years past, or 500 years in the future.

Miss Nellie Leach, Australian newspaper writer who is going to Russia, to make a first-hand study of the Soviet system.

Many new faces were seen at the opening of the special session of the Congress. Senator Thomas W. F. Bayard took his seat from Delaware. Senator Smith W. Brookhart was sworn in from Iowa and Senator W. F. George from Georgia, succeeding Senator Mrs. W. H. Felton, who sat for a day as the only woman ever in that body. Senator David S. Reed, of Pennsylvania, who was sworn in shortly before the close of the last Congress, was also present. Mrs. Winifred Mason Huck, of Chicago, succeeded her deceased father as Congressman-at-Large from Illinois.

This Spreewald (Germany) woman has just buried her husband, and, according to custom, she wears white mourning garb, fashioned like a sack.

Mr. Timothy Healy, Governor-General of the Irish Free State.

De Wayne Frances fears she is under the "evil spell." Two husbands she has divorced. A third has disappeared, and now, in her Los Angeles home, the fourth has killed himself.

When Mrs. Yvonne Willmot, a war bride, confessed to her husband that Paul Peter, a neighbour, had promised her "his clothes, love and a home of Egyptian splendour," Scott Willmot went to Peter's home and firing through a door, shot him down.
